

Pardo GT75

Is this new flagship a "Villa on the Sea"? Pardo makes a strong case.

"From dockside, there's no mistaking the GT75 for anything but a Pardo-built performance luxury entertainer. She's characteristically angular, with a reverse-raked bow that features a beautiful, curved swath of stainless out front that's both accent and functional wave slicer. Her gunwales are fairly flat until you're astern, where they plunge down to the beach platform at a stairwell-parallelling 45 degrees. Her black hardtop bears a forward-raked, spray-shedding windshield. Removable wire and carbon-fiber railings all around will keep passengers and crew on board when navigating rougher waters."

Take a tour with Power & Motoryacht's senior editor Chris Dixon >>